

2022-08-27 Integrated Planner

The one authoritative source belongs to one account, and generally each user should have only one account, which will be used for all planning, whether for work, personal, or other use (church, volunteer, civic, etc.)

Any given device may require authentication to a resource provider, maybe? Maybe not the device?

• DO I NEED TO WORRY ABOUT THIS RIGHT NOW?

A: Maybe. It could dramatically influence the architecture

The primary engine code will be in the distributed clients?

I would use a certificate in the native clients to represent the user? or just an account key?